Report of Secretary.

[Dirba] has not had time to prepare the financial statement: the CEC meetings, writing the minutes of ‡- “C.” probably refers to Cleveland. The paper in question is uncertain but may well have been the trade union organ The Workers Challenge. The Toiler, the main legal English language weekly of the American Communist movement had also originated in Cleveland as The Ohio Socialist, but it is believed that this publication was moved to New York prior to the time of this meeting. In January 1922 The Toiler was merged with The Workers Council to form The Worker — the primary English weekly of the Workers Party of America.

them, getting connections from the UCP, and getting out the first circular and Bulletin to the DOs and Federations have taken all his time.

Technical Department is now organized.

Report accepted.

Report of Editorial Committee.

Next issue of The Communist, about 24 pages, to contain story of convention, constitution, program, resolutions, and committee reports. Expect to get it out in about 10 days, want all the revised reports and documents. Want to employ “Dales” [??] as general assistant.

Motion (by “Curtis” [Ballam]): To empower the Editorial Committee to employ “Dales” [??] as general assistant.

Motion carried.

Matters Left Over From Previous Meeting.

Editor of Underground Papers.

Motion (by “Kelly” [Ashkenuzi]): To postpone action until “Cook” [Jim Cannon] comes.

Motion lost.

“Curtis” [Ballam] and “Wheat” [Lovestone] were nominated, and received each 5 votes.

Motion (by “Paul” [Wilenkin]): To leave the Editorial Committee to apportion the work among these two comrades.

Motion lost, 5 to 5.

† The post of Editor of Underground Papers was regarded as a matter of fundamental factional importance between the former members of the old CPA and the UCP. Again and again voting split along factional lines between the former old CPA member Ballam and the former UCP member Lovestone. Wilenkin’s motion to allow the editorial committee to assign work — divided as it was 2-1 in favor of the old-CPA — was doubtlessly viewed by the former members of the UCP as a backhanded method of awarding the post to Ballam.

‡- Dirba: “That on all questions of procedure a majority of those voting shall decide. On other questions decision shall be by majority vote of those voting except on roll call, in which case six votes, a majority of the whole Committee, shall be required for binding decision.”

§- Katterfeld: “That on all questions of procedure a majority of those voting shall decide. On other questions decision shall be by majority of those voting except on roll call, in which case six votes, a majority of the whole Committee, shall be required for binding decision.”

∆- Original formulation: “(2) to divulge any decisions of the CEC not shown on the official extracts sent out to membership, or any proceedings, information, or debated not having a direct bearing upon the decisions and matters so given out by the CEC.”

†- Melech Epstein in his 1959 book The Jew and Communism, 1919-1941, tells an extensive and rather gossipy tale of the Russian-born Belsky-Fischer, the former District 6 [Chicago] Organizer of the old CPA. According to this account, Belsky, a member of the Moscow Bolshevik Committee as early as 1903, had been expelled under a cloud of suspicion as a possible Okhrana agent. He disappeared from the radar, only reappearing in Soviet Russia in 1921, where he had gone in an attempt to clear his name of suspicion of having been a police informant in the United States. The case against Belsky is said to have been circumstantial and he was merely ordered to leave the country. “A couple of years later,” according to Epstein, Belsky again came to the attention of the authorities as an assistant to the director of the state bank in Leningrad, who was undergoing trial for financial irregularities. One of the prosecutors is said to have recognized Belsky, “who was immediately arrested and shot without a trial in the basement of the Cheka.” (pp. 45-46).
